

GOVERNOR AIMS TO PUT 'REDS' IN JAIL

Decides on Full Investigation of Anarchistic Activities Here.

JUSTICE DAVIS IN CHARGE

Alderman Lee's Circular Tells of U. S. Fear—Embry Relates Russia's Woes.

Justice Vernon M. Davis and a special grand jury will be designated by Gov. Smith to sit in an extraordinary session of the Supreme Court to investigate evidence unearthed by the Lusk committee here concerning the radical activities of the Rand School of Social Science, the so-called Commercial Bureau of the Russian Soviet Government, the I. W. W. and other alleged adherents of Bolshevism. The special term will probably begin its work August 11.

This announcement was made yesterday by Alfred J. Talley, Assistant District Attorney, at the close of a conference at the County Court house with George Van Name, Gov. Smith's secretary. The request that the Governor order an extra grand jury to inquire into the activities of the Lusk committee already had evidence which was presented at the trial of a number of indictments against Rand propagandists. Should they be handed up vigorous criminal prosecutions will follow, it was said.

The true bills are to be sought under sections 160 and 161 of the Criminal Code, which provide a penalty of ten years imprisonment for anyone who advocates or attempts to induce others to do so, or who advocates or attempts to induce others to do so, or who advocates or attempts to induce others to do so.

Notwithstanding the position assumed by Chief Magistrate McAdoo on Tuesday, additional documents seized in the raid at the Rand School for which subpoenas had been issued were produced at the hearing of the Lusk committee yesterday. One, which was introduced in evidence by Archibald H. Stevenson, associate counsel to the committee, was a copy of the Rand School News for last month, containing the valedictory address by Oscar Edelmann, one of this year's graduates.

Favors Revolutionary Slogan.

After sketching the socialist movement in Europe and referring in glowing terms to the Bolshevik revolution he said:

"In America we have a longer road to travel, greater obstacles to overcome. Because of historical reasons, our work for movement in America is conservative and more backward than the labor movement of Europe. For us, as students, socialists and labor unionists, our work is laid out. We must help educate the workers of America so that their slogan, 'A fair day's wages for a fair day's work' be replaced by the revolutionary slogan, 'Abolition of the wage system.' We must help our fellow workers to see the vision of a new social order.

"We see to-day the rise of the greatest handicaps to our Russian comrades in the weakness of the American labor movement and the strength of American capitalism. We are convinced more clearly than ever before that the workers of our country cannot emancipate themselves without the support and cooperation of the workers in other countries. In the great world struggle which is taking place to-day we must take active part. Long live International Socialism!"

Another interesting document was one of the twelve lessons prepared by Scott Nearing in the school's correspondence course. In it he gave a resume of the Bolshevik "Declaration of Rights," which, he said, among other things provided that all workers are to be armed and all members of the property class are to be disarmed.

"Which class would Brother Nearing come in?" Senator Lusk asked.

"Well," said Mr. Stevenson, "judging from his bank roll I think he would belong to the property class."

Another of Nearing's assertions was that "the struggle between plutocracy and democracy is a struggle for life and death. One must survive, the other must be destroyed."

Nearing's Love for Soviets.

Mr. Stevenson said he thought this showed conclusively a real sympathy for the Soviet form of government.

Another exhibit was a statement taken in the Rand raid from the room of Alderman Lee, the school's educational director. It was apparently a press notice as, at the top, it was inscribed, "Release for Monday." The Rand School, it said, is "a place in possession of a document which gives it the full right to circulate the pamphlet, 'Soviets at Work,' by Nikolai Lenin, barred from the mails some time ago by Burleson's order. An affidavit had been filed with the United States District Court stating that the post office has rescinded its order declaring the pamphlet non-mailable."

"The postal authorities, rather than allow the suit of the American Socialist Society to go before the court, backed out and hoisted the white flag. They did not dare to allow the attorneys of the American Socialist Society to analyze Lenin's masterpiece, and to lay before the court evidence containing testimony of noted students of politics and history who class Lenin's program as one of the most important state papers produced in modern times."

A copy of the radical paper, Labor, published in Montreal, which was found in the Rand School reading room, also was presented as evidence. On an inside page was an article headed, "Writing out the A. P. of L. U. Writing in the O. B. U." which, it was explained, referred to the American Federation of Labor and the "One Big Union." The article contained a report of a convention of workers at Calgary, Canada, in which the Soviet Government was endorsed and advocated for the Dominion.

Much of the day's session was occupied by the further testimony of John A. Embry, former United States Consul General at Omsk, Siberia, who was a witness Tuesday. Mr. Embry declared it as his belief that not more than 10 percent of the people of Russia favored Bolshevism to-day and that the movement there was certain of collapse and failure. His testimony followed closely the lines of his previous utterances.

Robbery After Executions.

In telling of the wholesale executions of innocent persons made by the Bolsheviks at Joliet, Illinois, Mr. Embry said: "There was no honor among thieves, and they fought for the spoils just the way that a pack of wolves fight for a corpse."

He told of desecrations of pictures of Christ and the Virgin Mary in churches, of the destruction of icons and of the installation of a grappophone which played objectionable tunes. He referred also to photographs of mutilated corpses which he had seen.

"The Siberian Government as I knew it at Omsk the last six months to a year, government, struggling to restore law and order and to secure to the Russian people their rights, which have been completely swept away under Bolshevism,"

CUPID ROUTS GLOOM IN FUNERAL CHURCH

Waiter and Fiancee See Sign on Window and Ask to Be Married.

PRESS AGENT IN ECSTASY

Frantically Assembles Ministers, Organist and Flowers for Ceremony.

Ethelbert Covert, the grave press agent of the Lincoln Square Embalming Parlor and Funeral Church, sat twirling his thumbs under a spreading palm in the sacrophagus chamber of that enterprising Broadway establishment yesterday afternoon. He was thinking, perhaps a bit wistfully, that if some really big name would die he would really be getting the world through the obituary columns that "funeral arrangements were by his undertaking business."

He switched on the electric fan and watched its emulating sphygmeter flutter the dimly robes of Diana, Aphrodite, Minerva and the other clay goddesses peddled around him. It was a dull day for Ethelbert, when in walked a Commodore waiter with a shy maiden on his arm.

"I am a Dane," said the waiter, who was Alfred B. Madson of 228 West Forty-fifth street. "I read on the window this is a church."

"Sure, it's a church," responded Ethelbert, "that is, not this, but upstairs there's the finest Gothic cathedral in New York—we hire the organist, minister and hallelujah—first class service."

"Yes, yes," interrupted the girl, "but we only want a quiet affair; we have our license. Is the minister here?"

"Then a big white light hit and penetrated the press agent dome, and with a gasp of delight he cried:

"Say, you don't want a funeral—you want to get married!"

"Who said anything about a funeral?" put in the waiter, "we're going to get married to-night and go to Niagara. I came back in three days and work at the Commodore. We don't know anybody in New York."

"That's all right, the press agent assured him, "you just make yourself comfortable," and they sat in the big leather chairs all as mused while Ethelbert dashed around the corner to St. Stephen's Church, and hurried the Rev. Nathan Seagle into his coat, grabbed a huge bunch of white roses and a four yard roll of white ribbon and rushed the morgan just as Mrs. Madson, the organist, was leaving after a funeral.

"Get upstairs pronto and play Lohengrin as loud as you can, we're going to have a wedding!" he cried.

"But I don't know it well enough," expostulated the woman.

"That's all right, play 'Hearts and Flowers'—that's what Francis Bismarck has when he gets married in the movies."

Broadway Hears Wedding March.

Then he feverishly called up all the papers of New York and the photograph and the movie man.

At 5 o'clock "Hearts and Flowers" boomed over Broadway. Some people in mourning, who were inspecting first class coffins, were hastily crowded into an anteroom, and the bridal procession climbed the iron staircase to the chapel overhead.

The charming little bride, Anna P. Albrecht of 218 Bradhurst avenue, was married to Alfred B. Madson of 228 West Forty-fifth street.

THAW REQUISITION LIKELY TO BE DENIED

Attorney-General Shatter Will Ask Sproul to Refuse New York Plea.

INSANITY IS MAINTAINED

Pennsylvania Official Says Proceedings Should Be Taken in Philadelphia.

HARRISBURG, Pa., July 9.—Attorney-General William I. Schaffer late today informed Assistant District Attorney Robert S. Johnston and Edwin P. Kilroe of New York that the place to begin proceedings to have Harry K. Thaw returned to New York for trial on a charge of assault was in the Philadelphia court where Thaw was adjudged insane. Mr. Schaffer will recommend to Gov. Sproul that the requisition of the Governor of New York for return to that county of Thaw, now in a Philadelphia insane asylum, be refused.

This action will be in line with that of Gov. Brumbaugh in May, 1917, when he refused requisition on recommendation of Francis Shunk Brown, then Attorney-General. The New York attorney asked requisition on the ground that Thaw was reported to have left Philadelphia at various times, to have been seen in hearing and cafes and to be transacting business. This was denied by former Judge James Gay Gordon, counsel for Thaw, who said the man had only been out of the asylum twice and then by court order. He presented papers showing the orders of the court in the case. The New York attorney asked a hearing to establish facts as to sanity and Judge Gordon replied that Thaw, being a lunatic by judgment of a court, is in the custody of the law and testimony here would be irrelevant.

Mr. Johnston contended that the United States Constitution imposed a duty on the Governor of Pennsylvania to honor a requisition from another State, but the Attorney-General held that Thaw's having been declared a lunatic by formal proceedings in court acted as a foreclosure and should be accepted under the "faith and credit" clause of the Constitution, advising that as the court order fixed the status of Thaw as a lunatic, proceedings should be taken in the court where he was so adjudged.

He added that he thought the decision of Mr. Brown in the former proceeding was correct, and expressed doubt whether Thaw was taken to New York, he could be tried when he was a lunatic under the law. He also said that if a man was in prison for contempt of court he could not be taken out until he was purged himself. "Until Thaw was adjudged sane by the court which committed him, he held that he must stay in custody, and while there could not harm anybody. If he was ever adjudged sane, said the Attorney-General, requisition proceedings could be started."

WANTS ALL IN THE LEAGUE.

Pan-American Labor Congress Elects Gompers President.

At a meeting of the first annual congress of the Pan American Federation of Labor here yesterday a demand that all the nations of the world be made eligible to the League of Nations was expressed in a resolution unanimously adopted by delegates from ten countries.

The following nations were represented: United States, Mexico, Salvador, Porto Rico, Honduras, Dominican Republic, Porto Rico, Ecuador, Nicaragua and Guatemala. Representatives of Argentina and Chile are expected to arrive before the congress adjourns.

The American Federation of Labor is represented by Samuel Gompers, who was unanimously elected president of the federation. John Murray was elected English speaking secretary and Canuto Vargas of Arizona, Spanish speaking secretary.

The convention also voted to use its good offices toward a settlement of the Peru-Chile boundary dispute and to aid in the formation of trade unions in Central and South America.

The American Federation was called upon to clarify its reasons for objecting to immigration during the first four years of the reconstruction period.

MRS. LULU BURGER NOW AT LOS ANGELES

Young New to Contend Miss Lesser Killed Herself.

Special Dispatch to The Sun.

LOS ANGELES, July 9.—Mrs. Lulu M. Burger, mother of Harry S. New, confessed slayer of Frieda Lesser, whom he was to have married last Saturday night, arrived in Los Angeles to-day to take up the defense of her son. Mrs. Burger was in a state of collapse and her physician advised deferring her meeting with young New until to-morrow.

Her defense attorney, J. H. Richardson, will be that Miss Lesser either killed herself or was the victim of an accident. The attorney contended that after the shooting he drove about for several hours in a dazed condition and cannot recall exactly what happened. If this defense is not set up New will plead temporary insanity.

The funeral of Miss Lesser was held this morning and the body will be shipped to Birmingham, Ala., her home, for burial. Her father formerly was German consul here. Alice Lesser, mother of the slain girl, was in too critical a condition to-day to attend the funeral of her daughter and it is feared the shock may destroy her reason. Both she and New are being carefully guarded to prevent attempts at suicide.

Mrs. Burger to-day reiterated her statement that New was the son of an attorney of 100 Broadway, was directed to make an apology to Patrolman John J. Duffy by Magistrate Tobias yesterday, and after that was done with considerable grace the court discharged him.

Burger was arrested the night of June 30 when he was starting home from the Ritz-Carlton Hotel for displaying too much friendship toward Patrolman Duffy. Duffy said the officer insisted on his shaking hands, and when this was done squeezed his hand so that a ring cut his finger. That made Officer Duffy mad and he arrested Burger.
